What I Stand For

My Values Compass · Level 5 · Vision and Life Direction

Name _____ Date _____

Your values are the principles that matter most to you. When your choices line up with them, even hard work feels meaningful. When they do not, success can feel strangely empty. Many people chase goals that belong to someone else: a parent, an employer, or the culture around them. Naming your own values helps you check that your vision is truly yours.

When your choices match your values, confidence follows.

PART 1 Choose Your Values

Read the list below. Write down every value that feels important to you, then narrow it to your top five.

All the values that feel important to you

How you narrowed them down

Ask yourself: if I could only keep one of these two, which would it be?

PART 2 Define Your Five

A value only guides you when you know what it means in practice. Define each one in your own words.

Value 1

THE VALUE

WHAT IT MEANS TO ME

HOW I HONOUR IT NOW (1 TO 10)

Value 2

THE VALUE

WHAT IT MEANS TO ME

HOW I HONOUR IT NOW (1 TO 10)

Value 3

THE VALUE

WHAT IT MEANS TO ME

HOW I HONOUR IT NOW (1 TO 10)

Value 4

THE VALUE

WHAT IT MEANS TO ME

HOW I HONOUR IT NOW (1 TO 10)

Value 5

THE VALUE

WHAT IT MEANS TO ME

HOW I HONOUR IT NOW (1 TO 10)

PART 3 Check Your Compass

Now hold your goals and choices up against your values.

Which of your goals are most aligned with your values?

Is any goal pulling you away from a value?

This is not a reason to drop the goal, but it may be a reason to change how you pursue it.

One change that would honour your lowest-scoring value

YOUR FIVE VALUES

My compass points to …

When your choices match your values, confidence follows.